

Costume Design (The Hateful Eight)

Director: Quentin Tarantino

The Hateful 8 is a good example of costume design, because the costumes in this film are made to look like the time. The costumes are also made specially for each character, just like Samuel Jackson in this film, who's meant to be the protagonist. His gloves are white to show his purity, while someone like Walton Goggins had black gloves and wears all black, showing that hes meant to be a bad character. In the film, he was part of a war against black people.

